SPRING WATER CO.Ex - Superintendent Seeks Wages for Four Months,
Claiming Sum of $1700

ONE AUTOMOBILE SUIT

C. F. Crowley, S. Langhorne, Named Defendant in Trespass Action

DOYLESTOWN, May 5 — Four suits, one of which is an automobile damage claim for $4,000, another involving the Langhorne Spring Water Company which is being sued for $1700, and another in which a Milford township man is being sued for $2,172.49, and a libel in divorce, have been filed in the Court of Common Pleas, here.

Claiming damages amounting to $4,000, William J. Taylor, 2116 Federal street, Phila., and Pocahtons L. Wright, 2116 Federal street, Phila., have named Cornelius F. Crowley, Lincoln Highway, South Langhorne, the defendant in an action in trespass.

Taylor, who claims the sum of $2,296.57 in his own right, was operating his car near Langhorne, Sept. 22, 1946, when it figured in a crash with a car driven by the defendant. Pocahtons L. Wright, one of the plaintiffs, was a passenger in the Taylor car at the time of the accident.

Claiming $1700, Otto F. Stompler, Hulmeville avenue, Langhorne, has named the Langhorne Spring Water Company, Hulmeville avenue, Langhorne Manor, the defendant in an action in trespass.

The plaintiff, in a complaint's statement, avers that April 13, 1946, by oral agreement he was employed as the superintendent of the water company at a salary of $4500 a year, or $375 a month.

He alleges that December 1, 1946, he was discharged, and has begun suit for wages for December, 1946; January, February and March of this year. He also claims a rental value of the dwelling house at $50 a month.

William Balk, Milford township, whose address is Pennsburg, R. D., has been named the defendant in an action in trespass, filed by Menno S. Harold L. and N. Clarence Rosenberg and Daniel F. Meas, trading as the Clover Leaf Electric Mill, Milford township, claiming the sum of $2,172.49 with interest from March 21.

The suit grows out of the purchase of various goods and merchandise, including feeds, grains, oyster shells, and other poultry.

RAIN TEMPORARILY
HALTS FARM ACTIVITY

Sweet Corn Plantings in Central Bucks is Held
Up by Downpour

GRAINS ARE AIDED

The steady rain of Wednesday night, and the heavy showers in some parts of Bucks County on Thursday did no damage to plants, but work of farmers and truckers was temporarily halted in many parts, due to the soil being thoroughly saturated. This is according to individuals located in the farm extension office at Doylestown, and outstanding farmers in the county.

Activities on the farm of William H. Yerkes, Jr., Buckingham, who engages quite extensively in the growing of sweet corn, were halted temporarily because of the rain. Mr. Yerkes, who annually devotes to between 200 and 250 acres to the growing of sweet corn, last Monday put in his first planting of about 14 acres, and had intended to make his second planting Friday. If soil conditions permit, Mr. Yerkes hopes to make three more plantings this week.

Although the rainfall was quite heavy, there was little erosion of soil. Mr. Yerkes strip farms his property at Buckingham, and on several farms he owns in the Furlong area he practices contour farming. These methods, it was

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Leaders of the four local unions that agreed to end the strike against the New York Telephone Company for a $4-a-week wage increase put down a rank-and-file revolt and ordered their members back to work today. Almost all the 37,000 employees involved are expected to ignore picket-lines established by the A. T. & T. long-lines and Western Electric unions, which are still out.

Officials of those two unions, who had accepted a Government proposal for an average weekly wage rise of $5.14, accused the New York strikers of having "deserted the ranks." The A. T. & T. rejected the $5.14 formula. Two of three striking unions in Illinois voted to accept a $4 increase; the third union had not contemplated balloting.

The Allegheny-Ludlum Steel Corporation signed a two-year contract with the steel union granting a basic 12½-cent-an-hour increase and including, probably for the first time in the basic steel industry, a company-financed health and welfare program.

Industry was urged by a group of industrialists and businessmen to show "economic statesmanship" by abandoning "dangerous pricing practices" and thus save the country from a slump. Isolated local campaigns to reduce prices have failed to affect most cost-of-living items, it was said. Indications were that retailers would be forced to how to wholesale and manufacturers' costs.

Secretary Marshall, in an effort to save the State Department's cultural program, which includes short-wave broadcasts to foreign lands, has asked 21 Congressional leaders to confer with him and radio officials this afternoon.

The House is expected to pass the Greece-Turkey aid bill this week, and the Senate is expected to approve the Taft omnibus labor bill.

Palestine terrorists blasted holes in the walls of Acre's central prison, freeing 120 Jewish and 131 Arab prisoners. At least 15 persons were killed and several wounded in fighting that ensued.

Yugoslavia is expected to ask the United Nations General Assembly to instruct the Political and Security Committee to permit the Jewish Agency to state the Zionist case. David Ben Gurion, chairman of the Jewish Agency Executive, prepared to fly to New York to speak if permitted.

Truman On Prices

—by—

SAMUEL B. PETTINGILL

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

With the possibility that we are facing an "economic cloudburst"—to use his words—it is unfortunate that Mr. Truman cannot discuss prices except from the political angle. Business is made the sole target of attack. Everything, according to him, is too high except wages, farm prices, taxes and the cost of government. So the three great voting blocs—the wage earner, the farmer and the bureaucracy are not offended. This may be good politics, but business was made the goat from 1932 to 1940, and largely as a result, jobless men were never less than 7,000,000 or 8,000,000.

11 FORM COMMITTEE
FOR HELP TO CHINA

Local Group, Headed by F.
R. Herrmann, prepares
To Receive Funds

TEA TO BE JUNE 12

The local committee named to aid in the fund drive for United Service to China is outlining plans whereby financial help can be secured here. In addition to the Chinese tea scheduled for June 12th, committee members are hopeful that individuals and organizations here will provide contributions.

Serving as chairman of the committee for this area is Fred R. Herrmann, with Mrs. Ernest Lawrence, Jr., as co-chairman. Others on the committee are: Mrs. A. Russell Burton, Mrs. Paul V. Forster, Mrs. Thomas G. Hawkes, Mrs. David M. Sheerer, Jr., Miss Sarah Silbert, Mrs. Richard I. McKinney, Mrs. Lewis M. Worthington, Borden R. Gillis, and C. Burnley White.

"Help China Help Herself" is the watchword of the campaign. In a pamphlet issued by the national campaign executive committee of United Service to China committee of which Edward R. Stettinius, Jr. is chairman, the case is thus presented:

"China is a land troubled by economic upheaval, frustration and political involvement. Fatigued by eight years of war, its people must endure additional hardships and privation before their struggle for unity, and freedom from want, can bear fruit.

"The Chinese people need friendly, understanding assistance now! Americans must rally to their side and render the service they need to speed their march forward."

WHOM TO TRUST?

From time to time someone comes forward with the proposition that "we've got to trust" our public leaders—whether the person in question is President Truman, Secretary of State Marshall, or some other high figure with a program to sell.

There could never be a concept more completely dangerous to free government than the idea that the people must "trust" their elected officials.

As a matter of fact, all governments could be divided into two classes—those in which the heads are "trusted" by the people, and those in which the people insist that public officials justify their decisions, and that they be subjected at all stages to what are known as "checks and balances."

When the people "trust" their officials—that's a dictatorship. The leader can do as he pleases, and if challenged, say only: "Don't you trust me?"

The German people trusted Hitler. The Fuehrer made them specific promises: job and wage security, sufficient food, a rebuilt army, a return to their former high position in world affairs, and "Lebensraum"—space in which to grow and expand. They made him dictator. What they got was world war, mass slaughter, starvation, ruin, and possibly generations of poverty. So with Mussolini, Hirohito, and the other dictators. They were "trusted." It didn't work.

The whole concept of the American form of Government is that the people should not be called upon to "trust" their national officials. The President is a check on Congress, Congress on the President, and the courts on both—at least, that was the original plan. The Federal government checked the States' rights, and the States checked the Federal power.

The men who wrote the Constitution hadn't seen the total, Socialistic dictatorships of recent years. But they had seen enough of tyranny in action to know how to guard against it. The foundation on which they started was that no man, tempted by the possibilities of remote and absolute power, could safely be trusted to use it solely for the public good.

There is a principle involved here which goes deep into human nature as well as into the theory of government.

One of the phases of history in the early stages of the American nation which deserves more attention than it gets was the care which the first presidents showed in trying to do nothing which trespassed on the rights of the whole public or of the other branches of government.

Course in Life-Saving Technique
Planned by Red
Cross for Area

GEORGE SCHOOL POOL

LANGHORNE, May 5 — A new course in life-saving technique and water safety will be conducted for residents of Lower Bucks County, starting May 12 and continuing through June 19.

The action to teach this important course was determined at a meeting held recently by the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter, American Red Cross at the Community House.

In making the announcement, Charles von Wallmenich, chairman of the First Aid, Water Safety and Accident Prevention Committee of the Lower Bucks County Branch described the program as an important and progressive step for the community.

"It marks," he said, "the first program of its kind undertaken by Red Cross or any other group in our community and I am hopeful that everyone in this widespread area will take advantage of the course."

The chairman further declared that the course would help prevent a repetition of last year's drownings. The guest speaker, Kenneth MacDonald, associate director of Water Safety for Red Cross, pointed out to those in attendance that this area is highly active in swimming recreation and that proper water safety protection should be available to all swimmers.

MAKING OF INVENTORS

The ability which enables a man to produce inventions has been looked upon as a gift for so many years that any assertion that young men can be trained to become inventors comes under the head of news.

In a discussion at a campaign fund meeting of the Thomas A. Edison Foundation in New York City, Dr. Charles F. Kettering said:

"Psychologists and psychiatrists to the contrary, I believe you can train young fellows to be inventors. To make an inventor all you have to do is to take his mind off the idea that it's a disgrace to fail. All you do is teach him to fail intelligently.

"Research is 999 failures to one success. If you make one success, you are in. I never made anything in my life that was good the first time, but I did build something from which to start."

Dr. Kettering can be considered something of an authority on the matter of inventing. Who's Who in America reveals that he invented automotive starting, lighting and ignition systems and that he invented and perfected battery plants for lighting farm houses and farm buildings. He is general manager of the research laboratories division of General Motors and chairman of the National Inventors Council of the Department of Commerce.

Dr. Kettering's achievements in the field of invention lend substance to his statements.

So, assuming that he is right and that some philanthropist will make available huge sums for the launching of a nationwide training program, this generation may look forward to a world teeming with intricate and ingenious devices, a new scientific and mechanical world that will make the present seem like pre-McCormick reaper days.

GAIN IN CLASSIFIED ADS

Newspaper advertising volume continues to chalk up large gains over 1946, and if this year does not set a new all-time high mark for newspaper advertising income it will be because there is not sufficient paper to print all the advertisements that are offered.

Contributing to this steady increase in volume of newspaper advertising is the tiny classified ad. Some metropolitan newspapers today have three times the number of columns of want ads as before the war. Most of this increase has been in ads inserted by individuals instead of by business men.

People have learned that whenever they want to buy or sell something, find a job or hire a maid, a want ad will bring unbelievably prompt results.

Hank says a $15,000,000,000 loan to Russia would insure peace, but fails to explain whether he arrived at this figure by consulting the Reds or his outboard.

Cost of the federal government is $11.730 per second. Congressional watchdogs of the Treasury just go nearly crazy every time they hear a clock tick.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Oct. 24, 1895. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

The election of officers of the Bristol Bicycle Club for the ensuing year took place at the last meeting at the club rooms and the following officers were elected: Benjamin T. Lovett, president; Samuel W. Black, treasurer; Malcolm Lovett, secretary; Thomas Longstreth, captain; Lewis Bevan, William Clark, S. K. Runyan, trustees.

Papers are being circulated among property owners along the Bristol turnpike for the purpose of securing their consent for the construction of a trolley road from the city line of Poquessing Creek north to Nesquehanna Creek, a distance of about three miles. The proposed line will all be within the limits of Bucks County, but will connect with the Frankford, Holmesburg and Tacony trolley line already built and running to Poquessing Creek.

Early on Saturday evening the barn on the farm late of Jacob M. Johnson in Bensalem was discovered to be on fire, which was quickly consumed, together with the hay and crops therein. It is thought to be the work of an incendiary.

On Sunday afternoon a barn on the farm of Amos Krusen, a mile east of Newtown, with all its contents was burned; the loss is $3000 with only $800 insurance. While this barn was burning the large barn of Stephen Janney, on the adjoining farm, was discovered to be in flames and was soon consumed, together with all the outbuildings, wagon house, ice house and corn cribs. Two fine horses, two mules and a number of bogs perished in the flames. Mr. Janney's loss is $8000. The fine large barn on the farm of Edward N. Ely, near Yardley, and the carriage house, corn house and other outbuildings were destroyed by fire about 11 o'clock Sunday night.

This was a comparatively new barn, one having been burned on the same site some years ago. The loss will be $10,000.

(Following items from Gazette of Oct. 31, 1895.)

Hugh B. Webster, of Humesville, one of the most enterprising farmers in that vicinity, has been remarkably successful in raising fruit this year. Mr. Webster has 1500 pear trees of the Keiffer variety, from which he will pick from 1000 to 1200 barrels. He sold this season over $1,000 worth of asparagus. He also has a large vineyard on his farm, which contains about 80 acres.

A large scow, with 10,000 bricks on board for Walter F. Leedom, sank in the Delaware last Saturday off the Market street wharf.

The greenhouses of Thomas DeWitt have been crowded with visitors this week to see the chrysanthemum show.

Eighty-four Bristol wheelmen rode to Mt. Holly one day this week.

Mrs. Rebecca Grundy, widow of the late Edmund Grundy, died at her residence, Walnut Grove, on last Saturday at the advanced age of 92 years. She survived all her children except Mrs. Isaac Harrison, of Philadelphia.

(Following items from Gazette of Nov. 7, 1895.)

The real estate in Bristol of the late Samuel K. Stackhouse was sold at public sale on last Saturday by Edward N. Booz, auctioneer. The two dwelling houses on the easterly side of Market street, between Wood and Cedar streets, were bought by James S. Fine for $2350, and the dwelling at No. 227 Mulberry street, was purchased for $1250 by Miss Lizzie Neisser.

Burlington has an epidemic of diphtheria of unusual proportions. All the public and private schools, with the exception of St. Mary's, are closed.

The religious ceremonies in connection with the laying of the cornerstone of the new Methodist Episcopal Church on Mulberry street will be held on Sunday afternoon, November 17th, at three o'clock. The presiding elder of the district, Rev. S. W. Gehret, will preach in the morning in the old edifice on Wood street.

WHOM TO TRUST?

They didn't want to be "trusted," in the current sense of the word. Thomas Jefferson was unhappy because circumstances made it necessary for him to complete the Louisiana Purchase without a full consultation with Congress and the people. This was typical of the period.

It wasn't until the time of Andrew Jackson that the United States found a president who was so full of his own importance and self-confidence that he insisted on the right to be "trusted"—that is, to decide himself what was next to be done, and then compel everyone to go along, whether they approved or not.

The fact of the matter is that a really "big" man, one with high moral principles and a deep sense of his own responsibility for making the American system work, wouldn't want to be "trusted" as President.

He would feel that the consequences of a mistake on his part, falling upon the shoulders of millions, were so grave that he ought, as we say, to "backstop" his opinions with those of others. And he would feel that the responsibilities of all others concerned with the handling of whatever problem faced him entitled them to share in determining the collective policy.

In personal affairs, the American people are apt to be somewhat skeptical of those who are so cock-sure that they never want advice—that they shun it, and insist always on having their own way.

Yet it is remarkable how many people who know that is a bad sign in small affairs, think that somehow it is an admirable quality for high office, such as that of the Presidency.

One of the troubles with the American system is that in recent years there has been a sequence of men who wanted to make the running of the country a personal accomplishment, and who not merely discouraged, but resented, any offers of help from whatever source.

This egotism, this self-satisfaction with one's own opinions and plans, of course were conspicuous in men like Woodrow Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt. Cleveland, though perhaps a trifle less vain of his own decisions, had something of the same quality. The failing is not wholly a Democratic fault; both Theodore Roosevelt and Herbert Hoover, on occasion, insisted on backing their own judgment and hunches against advice from their associates.

One of the interesting transitions of the recent months, which is having its profound effects on American Life, is the change of President Truman from a plain man, who apparently once strongly felt his political kinship with his former associates in the U. S. Senate, into a wilful, stubborn and headstrong "boss," insistent on dominating not only his own Democratic Party, but Congress, the Government, and the whole American people as well.

This transition is perfectly clearly shown in his public speeches. In his first addresses as President, he spoke humbly, and sought the co-operation of everyone; and he used many supplications for Divine guidance.

More recently, however, he has simply "laid it on the line," with a take it or leave it attitude—or perhaps, "take it or else" more correctly describes his manner.

He himself hasn't gone quite to the state of demanding that the American people "trust him" and let him take full charge; but many of his friends and supporters are urging precisely that. One thing is certain: An automobile steering-wheel is big enough to accommodate only one driver at a time; and it is going to have to be decided, during the course of coming months, whether the American people are going to continue themselves running their government, through the Constitutional arrangements—or turn the whole job over to President Truman.

Mr. Truman denies that farm prices are due to government floors under them, but says they are due to "phenomenal world demand" and the "unprecedented purchasing power of our own people." But if "world demand," etc., lifts farm prices, why doesn't it lift other prices?

He then says that if legislative floors had not given the farmer an incentive to produce, they would have produced less and with shorter supply, farm prices would be "much higher than they are now." From this, he argues that price incentives are a good thing for increasing farm output, but a very bad thing for increasing industrial output! Can you beat that?

He did not tell us that 40 million bushels of potatoes were dumped to rot because the government forced potatoes out of the reach of the housewife.

Business did not, as he says, promise to reduce prices if O. P. A. were repealed. All it did was to say production would increase and that would tend to bring prices down. Well, we are getting the increased production, and prices are beginning to drop. Look at clothing, furniture, houses, jewelry, furs, etc. If a man produces more, he should be paid more. But more pay for no more work is just as inflationary as a higher price for the same loaf of bread. Mr. Truman either does not understand this simple fact, or pretends not to for political reasons.

Huge profits are wicked; huge wages are not. Why? Profits do not disappear from the stream of purchasing power, anyone who takes wages. The Securities Exchange Commission reports that business plans to pour $14,000,000,000 of its profits back into new plant and equipment this year—an all-time record. This means jobs for millions of men in the heavy industries.

Since Mr. Truman spoke the other day, U. S. Steel and labor agreed on another 15c an hour. The company says this will increase costs by $75,000,000 a year. Mr. Truman makes no objection to steel paying higher wages, but it must not charge higher prices.

Since 1939, the cost of living has gone up 53%; the steel workers wage, not counting what happened the other day, has gone up 75%, and the price of steel only 25%!

Since 1939, the cost of the federal government has gone up 165%, and Mr. Truman is against reducing it anyhow, right now.

The President tells us that corporate profits after taxes "in the aggregate" increased 33% in 1946 over 1945. The implication is that this was due to "excessive" prices. The fact is that in 1946, business paid lower taxes, and without lower taxes, thousands of companies would have gone in the red. Even with tax adjustments, one-quarter of our manufacturing companies made less in 1946 than in 1945.

Last January, Mr. Truman estimated that the deficit by June 30 would be $2,000,000,000. It now looks like a surplus of $3,000,000,000. Just a $5,000,000,000 mistake! The man who made this mistake is very positive that the cost of government can't be reduced; that taxes should not be cut, and that "prices must be brought down." If we have a depression, Mr. Truman has built up an alibi. He does not intend to be found at the seat of the crime!

Bucks County Historical Society Hears Papers At Annual Meeting

Items. The largest addition included 215 items presented by George Hart, Doylestown. Its importance lies in the fact that it contains many legal and other papers from the estate of the late Judge Harman Yerkes. Included are stenographic reports of charges to the juries in the Burt, Robinson and Weaver murder cases, documents relating to the Willow Grove and other turnpike companies, and papers in relation to the Log College Assembly.

President Edward R. Barnsley, of Newtown, also presented his annual report. In part this report read:

"In the past year, two expensive commitments have been made by your officers in behalf of the library. First, a contract was signed last fall for the purchase of a new catalogue case, which we hope will be delivered within the next twelve-month period.

"It is the official intention of your directors to hire a professionally trained cataloguer, after the new catalogue case arrives, in order to properly index every printed publication in the library.

"The second most expensive disbursement for the library during the past year was lavished upon the newspaper collections, when $1445 was spent to repair the first nine volumes of the Doylestown Democrat."

"No effort has ever been made by this society to collect period furniture and furnishings because too many of the so-called fine art mu-

FOR THE SPRING MENU

Prunes, nuts and the juice and pulp of an orange—sugar and spice and everything nice—all these go into making Prune Orange Bread! Delightfully flavorful and satisfying, this new member of the versatile quick bread family is a happy addition to any spring menu.

The simplest dinner will take on importance if slices of this fruit bread are added to the bread basket. It is excellent served with afternoon tea or coffee, too. And the children will find sandwiches made from Prune Orange Bread, with peanut butter or cream cheese between the slices, a pleasant surprise in their lunch boxes.

A single loaf of Prune Orange Bread can serve all these menu purposes, for the abundance of fruit keeps the bread temptingly fresh for several days. In fact, it is better to bake it the day before serving, for such fruit breads all slice in more precise thin slices on the second day.

This bread is a highly nutritious addition to the meal. Like all products made from enriched white flour, it provides valuable amounts of protein, in addition to carbohydrates, "B" vitamins and iron.

Prune Orange Bread is easy to make according to the following recipe:

PRUNE ORANGE BREAD

1/2 cup shortening	2 teaspoons salt
1 cup sugar	1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 eggs	1 cup ground whole orange, pulp and juice
3/4 cup chopped cooked prunes	1/2 cup milk
2 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour	1/4 cup chopped nuts
4 teaspoons baking powder

Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs. Beat well. Add prunes and mix thoroughly. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, and cinnamon. To creamed mixture add flour mixture alternately with ground orange and milk. Mix thoroughly. Add nuts and mix well. Bake in greased loaf pan in moderate oven (350° F.) about 1 1/2 hours. Yield: 1 loaf, 4 1/2 x 8 1/2 inches.

seams are already competing for honors in this field. How to preserve, collate and index the Tools of a Nation Maker is quite enough of a problem for one museum!

"In spite of our general policy, however, some fine furniture is gradually being added, mostly by bequests from the estates of descendants who wanted to be sure that their treasured heirlooms will be taken care of perpetually. For example, we have accepted during the past year two accessions of this category. They are on exhibition today in the auditorium: first, a grandfather's clock received from the estate of Senator Howard I. James, Bristol, and secondly, two portraits of Hon. Samuel D. Ingham and one of his wife received from the estate of Mary H. Ingham, Philadelphia. "I want to call special attention to the historical writing and literary research being put forth by our librarian in his comprehensive study of the Doan Outlaws. Perhaps I should say "restudy," for George MacReynolds published his first book on the Bucks County Cowboys in the Revolution 52 years ago, and today that volume sells at a fantastic price whenever offered at auction.

"On next Friday and Saturday our society is being honored by a pilgrimage from the Early American Industries Association, Inc., which is a national group of men and women interested in the history of the early arts and crafts."

The annual report of Secretary Horace M. Mann showed the present membership being 410.

New members elected during the past year: Edmund E. Field, Hasbrook Heights, N. J.; A. Paul Townsend, Jr., Langhorne; Joseph G. Park, Washington Crossing; Austin L. Davison, New Hope; Charles W. Hargens, Jr., Carversville; Dr. Winslow S. Drummond, Phila.; Mr. and Mrs. Claire S. Collins, Trenton; Walter S. Hare, Phila.; Wilhelm Bock, North Wales; Mrs. John G. Clymer, Point Pleasant; J. D. Strawn, Cleveland, O.; Dr. James D. Morrison, Doylestown; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond K. S. Hess, Bethlehem; Miss Elizabeth G. Smith, Jenkintown; Mrs.

Samuel K. Lessey, Doylestown RD.; Russell B. Graves, Hartsville.

The annual report of Curator Horace M. Mann showed that 7198 persons signed the register during the year.

There were numerous additions to the museum collection, including among them an infantry sword of Captain Mahlon Yardley of Company G, 104th Pennsylvania Volunteers; two large-seated sleighs by Homer Lee, of New York; a sleigh by Jacob E. Cope, of Sellersville.

Curator Mann reported that very few specimens were purchased through the endowment fund because of diminishing income. Some of the purchased items included two shoemaker tools and a set of home-made dominoes made almost a hundred years ago by Stephen Wesner, father of William Wesner, formerly employed at the museum.

Capelet shoulders for a brown crepe dress for mothers-to-be.

A dark all-purpose crepe dress the mother-to-be can wear all Spring and into Summer is a "must" in her wardrobe. Especially as she gets larger and perhaps feels more at ease in not-too-light shades, she will want such a dress for shopping and luncheon, and practically all occasions not calling for decided dressing up.

The brown crepe dress shown, by a New York designer, has a gay touch on top in the multi-color print giving this season's capelet effect. Like many of the new maternity dresses, it is designed to keep its smoothness in front. The waistline is adjusted with invisible ties from the sides and all of the dress fullness is in back.

Miss Marie Petrinio And J. Accardi Wed

Men were Messrs. Louis deLisso, Beaver street, James Petrinio and John Accardi, the latter two brothers of the bride and groom, respectively. Mrs. Husbard was attired in pink, her colonial bouquet of mixed flowers having blue streamers; while the bridesmaids wore gowns of light blue, and carried colonial bouquets of mixed blossoms which had streamers of pink tone. The four wore silver slippers, and their heart-shaped hats of marquisette matched their gowns.

The vocalists, Miss Yolanda dePolio, sang "The Rosary," Miss Frances Tamburella accompanying her as well as the church choir.

Three events followed the nuptial mass, a breakfast being served at the home of the Accardi family, then dinner at five at the Keystone Hotel, these being for members of the bridal party. The evening reception was in Sons of Italy Hall.

Leaving for two weeks stay in Washington, D. C., Mrs. Accardi wore a two-piece gray suit, black top, gray hat with black trim, black accessories, and a corsage of lavender orchids. The couple will reside with the bridegroom's parents.

The gift of the groom to his bride was a triple strand pearl necklace, she wearing this for the wedding ceremony. To the bridegroom the former Miss Petrinio presented a wrist watch. Gifts of the bride to her attendants were marquisette crosses; while Mr. Accardi gave the best men inflated marquisette ties.

The heavy rain interfered little with the oats because many of the farmers have completed the sowing, and many of them have started to plow for corn.

Although the grasses and grains were not suffering because of the lack of moisture, the rain helped them.

"Congressman Gerlach suffered an attack in his room in Washington at about 12:15 a. m. on that date.

Making Every Effort To Save Babies' Lives

PHILADELPHIA, May 5—(INS)—Physicians at Temple University Hospital worked desperately today to save the lives of 13 babies suffering epidemic diarrhea contracted in Allentown, Pa.

Four of the tiny patients died in Philadelphia over the week-end and seven others were reported to have succumbed previously in the Sacred Heart Hospital, Allentown. The outbreak began March 31st.

The maternity section at the Allentown hospital was closed and 17 infants were transferred en masse to Philadelphia last Friday. The disease was confined to the Sacred Heart Hospital.

Fourteen nurses and four doctors were assigned to the babies' special isolation ward in Temple Hospital. A special call was sent out to drug houses for streptomycin.

A spokesman at Temple said this morning: "We are very hopeful of saving the 13 children that we have here."

Dr. Frederick G. Bausch, Allentown health officer, stated he was convinced that authorities at Sacred Heart Hospital did all they could to check the spread of the disease.

Dr. Bausch emphasized that "the cause of this inflammation of the bowels is still undetermined."

Two babies who died in Philadelphia yesterday were identified as Robert Gowin, born April 20 to Mrs. Hamilton Gowin, Allentown, and Joseph Sakovits, born March 20 to Mrs. Joseph Sakovits, Northampton.

Over 400 Attend Service Held Here by I. O. O. F.

Over 400 members and friends of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows crowded into the Bristol Methodist Church, last evening, for a service marking the 128th anniversary of the organization's founding.

Members of the fraternity were present from various parts of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, including high dignitaries of the lodge in both states.

The Van Buren Male Chorus gave an excellent musical program and the speaker was the Rev. Thomas Parker, Grand Chaplain, rector of the Memorial Episcopal Church, St. Paul, of Philadelphia.

The Rev. W. E. Preston Haas, pastor of the Bristol church, is Grand Master of the Order.

Interior of Library Is Being Redecorated

Work on redecorating the Bristol Free Library got under way this morning when work of repainting the interior began.

Walls of the rooms in the building are to be painted a peach color, with slate blue trim. Ceilings will be an off-tone white, to give maximum lighting.

The work is being done by John M. Burns.

The painting will not interfere with the hours the library is open, which are from 4:30 to 6 and 7 to 9 p. m., Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays. Other uses of the building also will continue as usual.

Bristol Processing Plant Is To Be Reopened Soon

Indications today point to an early resumption of activities at the plant of the Bristol Processing Co., Beaver street and Jefferson avenue.

Two hundred or more of the 800 employees of the company have received notices informing them that they have been selected as employees of the company, which is to resume work under new management.

Local No. 185, Bristol Fur Workers' Union, today issued a notice that there will be a special membership meeting this evening at 7:30 o'clock in Mutual Aid Hall, Wood street. The notice was issued by Frank Indelicato, president.

There has been some contention between the union and the Bristol Processing Corporation since its closing here at the time the company went into reorganization. It has been stated unofficially that the Fur Workers' Union and the management have been at odds over the rate of pay which should prevail if the plant is reopened.

The notice received by former employees reads as follows:

"This is to advise you we are prepared to reopen the factory under new management. We regret we cannot retain all the workers who were formerly employed by Bristol Processing Corporation. You have been selected on the basis of the quality of your work, and you will be asked to report as soon as we reach a settlement with the union."

Firm officials stated today they are unable at present to make public information regarding the "new management" mentioned on the cards.

When you get your modern, new gas range, you'll get cooking results without the old-time cooking cares. For instance, accurate oven temperature control assures exactly the right temperature for every cooking operation, and on many models a simple clock control permits you to cook a complete dinner automatically. New ranges have improved oven ventilation, too, which circulates heat evenly on every level. So, whether it's baking, roasting, broiling, or top-of-range cooking, a modern gas range means complete satisfaction with every meal!

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis
Pastor
Eddington Presbyterian Church

Dear Father, we thank Thee for yesterday. Except for memory yesterday would be gone forever. There are many things we ought to forget and so many more experiences we want to recall for our repeated enjoyment. Through the gift of memory we do preserve the past. May we not abuse this precious gift by remembering for selfish reasons only. As this day comes to a close it is not too late to do something for others in Thy Name that will live forever. If gratitude is the memory of the soul we pray Thee to accept our grateful thanks for all the many blessings we have received this day in Christ. Amen.

The Bristol Suburban League begins its second week tonight with games being scheduled on four fields. Games will begin at six o'clock.

One of the important tilts involves the Bristol Legion and Fifth Ward Sporting Club on the Third Ward field. The Bristol Legion is undefeated while the upcoming Fifth Ward team will be out to stop the winning streak of the Legionnaires.

The Langhorne Legion will play its first home game, meeting the Harriman team which is now under the sponsorship of Paul Voltz. Harriman appears to be one of the leading contenders for the second division championship. "Steve" Davidson, who hurled fine ball in the opener for Langhorne, will pitch for the g-men.

Badenhausen will play Goodwill House on the Township field while in the other tilt, Rohm and Haas plays the Fur Workers Union on Leedom's field.

There is a possibility that several of the games scheduled for last Thursday evening which were called because of rain will be played Wednesday evening.

- WAR-CAUSE POLL.
- DENVER—(INS)—A majority of the American people believe the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor was the immediate, but not the only reason for our entry into World War II. When the National Opinion Research Center at Denver University, in a nation-wide poll, asked opinions on the cause of entrance into the war, sixty-one per cent answered that there were causes outside Pearl Harbor. Twenty-nine per cent ascribed the nation's participation solely to the Jap attack. Ten per cent were undecided.
- LONG WAY AROUND
- NORTH BEND, Ore.—(INS)—Mail a letter from North Bend to Coos Bay, only three miles away, and it travels 200 miles. The bags of mail are put on the night train to Eugene because there are no clerks on duty nights at Coos Bay post office. There are clerks on the train, though, and they work the mail and transfer it to the Coos Bay train which they meet early in the morning.

TED HORN EXPECTS TO SET RECORD AT SPEEDWAY OVAL

He Became the Top Pilot Last Year, Outscoring All His Rivals

VETERAN OF TRACK

He Held 43 Official Track Records When Big Car Events Started This Year

PHILADELPHIA, May 5 — Ted Horn, the nation's No. 1 big car auto race driver, expects to set a new record or records when he competes in the season's opening speed program Sunday at Babcock's Langhorne Speedway, located on Lincoln Highway.

Horn, a resident of Paterson, N. J., became the top pilot last year when he outscored all his rivals, accumulating sufficient points to take the title by a wide margin.

A veteran of the speedways, Ted holds more track records than any other driver. Yet, if he sets a new standard for Langhorne, he will merely be adding to his collection. At the present time Horn does not hold a single mark for the Lincoln Highway oval.

Before big car auto racing started this year, Horn owned a grand total of 43 official track records. His list includes best times ever made at Altoona, Pa.; Atlanta, Ga.; Columbia, S. C.; Imperial, Calif.; Trenton, N. J.; Phoenix, Ariz.; Allentown, Pa.; Bedford, Pa.; Danbury, Conn.; DuBois, Pa.; Dunkirk, N. Y.; Greensboro, N. C., and many other race strips.

Rex Mays set an all-time world's record for mile tracks when he turned the Langhorne oval in 34.66 seconds, an average speed of 103.8 miles an hour, during a qualifying run last summer. This helped maintain the reputation of the Langhorne Speedway, after four years of wartime-enforced idleness, as the fastest mile dirt track in the world.

The late George Robson also set a new Langhorne track record last year when he negotiated 29 miles in 12 minutes, 20.54 seconds. Firing rockets on the back stretch and straightaway, Robson bettered Mays' time for a mile by reaching an average speed of 108.1 miles an hour but it is not recognized as an official record.

Horn believes, he said, that he can better both the mile mark of 34.66 seconds and the 29-mile record of 12 minutes, 20.54 seconds during the seven-event program of May 11, which will provide more than 100 miles of racing. Qualifying trials will start at one p. m. (EDT).

Miss Marian Liberatore And James DiPinto Wed

Given in marriage by her brother, Miss Marian L. Liberatore, 13 Lincoln avenue, became the wife of Mr. James DiPinto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony DiPinto, Philadelphia, yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. The former Miss Liberatore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Liberatore, took the marriage vows in St. Ann's R. C. Church, she being escorted to the altar by Mr. Henry Liberatore, Lincoln avenue, as Miss Frances Tamburella played the bridal march. Vocalist for the occasion was Mr. Joseph Galzerano, Radcliffe street.

The bride gown of satin was trimmed with lace. The bride wore a veil, and carried a bouquet of gardenias with center of lavender orchid.

Her trio of attendants wore floor-length gowns of net over satin; sweetheart style net bonnets, and carried bouquets of yellow tea roses. Mrs. Mark D'Eastachio, Beverly, N. J., sister of the bride, who was matron of honor, was gownned in yellow; Miss Jennie DiTanna, Brook street, in blue green, and Mrs. Leonard Napoli, Philadelphia, sister of the bridegroom, in orchid. The latter two served as bridesmaids. Mr. Harry DiPinto, Philadelphia, attended his brother as best man; and the usher was Mr. Leo Napoli, Philadelphia.

The evening reception took place in Mutual Aid hall, Mr. and Mrs. DiPinto then leaving for Washington, D. C., for a honeymoon trip. They will make their home at 409 Lafayette street.

It is also stated that "United Service to China has designed its program to conform with Chinese plans to help themselves. It is aimed at the heart of China's problems and will produce lasting benefits."
